

Thirteen Colonies Brochure

Imagine (想像).....

The time is 1735 and you are in London. Desperate times have fallen upon the King. A population explosion in Britain has left little available space throughout the country. His people are running the risk of starving because they are unable to grow and import enough food to feed his people. There is much room in the 13 colonies, but with little information available people are hesitant to move there. The King is creating a task force to create a brochure on each of the colonies in hopes to attract more people to North America. This should help to slow down the population burst plus make more goods available to be shipped back to the mother country.
